THE RUPPERT WILL CASE.

This morning the trial of the Ruppert will case was resumed before Judge Bradley in Cir-cuit Court, No. 1, the usual large crowd in attendance being somewhat reduced by the news building.

Mr. Simon Wolf, taking the stand, corrected his testimony of yesterday by stating that upon examining his books since yesterday he had examining his books since yesterday he had found a charge against Mr. Ruppert of $150 for services rendered by him in connection with the former's will.

Mr. Worthington thereupon moved that all of Mr. Wolf's testimony relating to the will be stricken out, on the ground that Mr. Wolf, having been the attorney of Mr. Ruppert, could not testify, and a long argument followed.

Mr. Worthington contended that if there ever was a time when the confidential relations between attorney and client should be religiously observed, that occasion was when the client confided in his attorney upon the making of a document which disposed of the client's goods and chattels after he had passed away.

Judge Bradley inquired if it were not competent for the attorney, after the client's (the lesstator's) death, to make public, on a proper occasion, the reasons which the testator had in making the will?

occasion, the reasons which the testator had in making the will?

Mr. Worthington thought not, but upon the court intimating that the United States Supreme Court had fully covered the point Mr. Worthington desisted from further argument and noted an exception to the court's ruling that Mr. Wolf might testify concerning the will. THE WILL EXECUTED.

Resuming the stand, Mr. Wolf stated that Mr. Johnson particularly inquired as to the different beneficiaries in the will, and that when the bequest to the home was reached Mr. Johnson explained that trustees would have to be named, and Mr. Ruppert said the three executors would do, and at Mr. Ruppert's request named two additional ones, neither of whom Mr. Ruppert would agree to. Mr. Ruppert then suggested the son-in-law of witness, Mr. Cohen, and Mr. Louis Faber, and asked witness how about them. Witness replied that it was a matter alone for Mr. Ruppert to decide. Later, when the will was completed at Mr. Wolf's office, he inquired of Mr. Ruppert if he desired to execute it, and when he replied that he did, witness opened the door and called Messrs. Chas. W. Handy, E. Carroll Diggs and W. F. Roberts, who came and witnessed the will. Resuming the stand, Mr. Wolf stated that Mr.

DID NOT INFLUENCE HIM.

The first understood him, first understood h

to do with the settlement of the fire loss. The adjusters of the various companies took charge of the matter. He had, however, used his good offices in effecting as early a settlement as practicable. He never told Mr. Ruppert that he should claim the full amount of the insurance. Never spoke to Mr. Ruppert about the loss in the presence of Mr. Upperman. He had no knowledge whatever of Mr. Ruppert having set fire to his store, and not the slightest suspicion of him having done so. Mr. Ruppert never loaned witness a check for $600 for 100 shares in the Plate Glass Company.

In June, 1891, witness went to Atlantic City. Before going he received a note from Mr. Ruppert stating that he would go. They met in Philadelphia; from there went to Atlantic City together. Witness remained there three of four days, leaving before Mr. Ruppert did, and meeting Mrs. Wiegman there once or twice. In the presence of Mrs. Weigman there Mr. Ruppert said to witness that he had told her of his will.

The examination of Mr. Wolf had not been concluded when, at 12:30, the court took a recess until 1 o'clock.

Don Antonio Lozo Arriaga, the new Guate-maian minister, was formally presented to the President yesterday afternoon and the usual courtesies were exchanged. In the course of his address Don Antonio said:

courtesies were exchanged. In the course of his address Don Antonio said:

"Guatemala is rapidly developing its abundant resources of wealth, and now that, with the opening of the Columbian universal exposition, are being exhibited the brilliant results of human endeavor and genius for the benefit of all the civilized communities of the earth, the moment seems opportune—to the reciprocal advantage of both peoples—to draw still closer, if possible, the cordial and sincere relations which for so long a time have fortunately linked them. This is the principal aim of the mission I bear, and which, with the efficient co-operation that your excellency will doubtless deign to lend me, will be for me a facile and gratifying task."

To this President Cleveland responded: "Toward Guatemala, as to the other neighboring commonwealths of Central America, the government and people of the United States have ever testified sympathy and friendship, and in so far as your mission may conduce to closer intimacy and larger mutual esteem between our two nations you may rest assured of the cordial efforts of myself and my advisers to such beneficial enda."

The Secretary of State yesterday presented to the President Baron de Rio Branco, president to the Argentine Republic. The commissioners from the Argentine Republic have not yet appeared in Washington, and nothing has been heard from them indicating the probable date of their arrival, though under the arbitration agreement the case must be submitted by July 1.

not yet received a reply from his government to the cablegram sent by him several days ago requesting information.

Speaking of the reports relative to a protectorate being established over Nicaragna by the United States, Dr. Guzman said he thought there was nothing in it beyond newspaper gossip. In regard to the canal, he said if it was ever built the United States would certainly exercise its supremacy over it, but at the present time there is very little canal work being done.

A Drawback.
